Fund Update

Within our traditional fixed income portfolio, both the Russell Investments International Bond Fund – $A Hedged and the Russell Investments Australian Bond Fund posted negative absolute and excess returns over the period; the two funds impacted by their duration positioning. In terms of our extended fixed income exposure, Australian private credit manager Metrics Credit outperformed cash and traditional fixed income assets in October. The Russell Investments Australian Floating Rate Fund also performed well; the Fund outperforming cash as floating rate assets continued to benefit from a higher interest rate environment. Within our global equity portfolio, the Russell Investments Tax Effective Global Shares Fund (TEGS) underperformed its benchmark; though it did record positive absolute returns over the period. TEGS' underperformance was driven largely by stock selection in the US; notably a material underweight to leading chip maker NVIDIA. The Russell Investments Multi-Asset Factor Exposure Fund recorded negative absolute and benchmark-relative returns in October. In terms of domestic equities, both the Russell Investments Australian Shares Core Fund and the Russell Investments Australian Opportunities Fund delivered negative absolute returns for the month; though the Core Fund did narrowly outperform its benchmark. The Russell Investments Australian Shares Index Fund tracked the broader equity market lower. More broadly, our exposures to global and Australian listed property weighed on overall performance, while a significantly weaker Australian dollar (relative to the US dollar) boosted the returns of the Fund's assets denominated in foreign currency.
