^AThis performance is net of management fees for both the Managed Portfolio and the underlying managers' fees and costs. It does not take into account any third party platform fees charged to individual investors or transaction costs (including buy/sell spreads and brokerage fees). It assumes income is reinvested without any tax deduction. It is for RIML's preferred model portfolio of holdings. A holding in the preferred model portfolio may be restricted or replaced with another similar asset in the Managed Portfolio on different platforms if the preferred holding is not available. Different platforms may also charge different management fees for the Managed Portfolio. This can result in variances in performance of the Managed Portfolio between platforms. An individual investor's performance will differ, according to the investor's actual exposures to Managed Portfolio holdings and other factors (including transaction timing, transaction costs, actual underlying manager fees and costs and whether income is paid in cash). Platforms will have their own methodology for calculating performance, at both a platform level and an individual investor level. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

Portfolio objective

The managed portfolio aims to provide capital growth over the long term consistent with a portfolio focusing on solely growth assets, while accepting fluctuations in capital values in the medium term. The managed portfolio aims to outperform the benchmark over the long term.

Main market highlights

Global share markets made good gains in July, benefiting from speculation the US Federal Reserve (Fed) may be nearing the end of its rate-hiking cycle. The Fed lifted interest rates another 0.25% late in the period, however the market's reaction to the move was relatively muted as investors - buoyed by the latest inflation figures - speculated that the Bank may actually be done with raising rates altogether. Both headline and core inflation in the US continued to ease in the 12 months to 30 June. Investors were also encouraged by Fed Chairman Jerome Powell's July post-meeting comments; the Bank's chief noting that whilst it's certainly possible the Bank could raise interest rates again when it next meets in September, it's also possible the Bank could choose to hold rates steady. Much will depend on upcoming economic data. Stocks also benefited from a series of surprisingly strong US earnings updates. Australian shares performed well in July, driven in part by the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA)'s decision to leave the official cash rate on hold at 4.10% early in the period. The local market also benefited from easing inflation and speculation the RBA may be approaching the end of its own rate tightening cycle.

Global bonds were flat for the month, while Australian bonds recorded only modest gains in July.

Main portfolio highlights

In terms of Australian equity managers, Allan Gray, Firetrail and Ausbil all outperformed; the latter benefiting from overweights to Evolution Mining, Worley Ltd. and James Hardie Industries. In contrast, Platypus underperformed its benchmark.

With regard to global equity managers, emerging markets specialist RWC Partners and UK equity specialist JO Hambro both outperformed their benchmarks. In contrast, PineStone underperformed, driven in part by overweights to Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co. and Japan's Keyence Corp.

In terms of overall positioning, we increased the portfolio's allocation to listed property and reduced its exposure to global equities. We added listed property as we believe the asset class has become oversold and now offers attractive value. We reduced global equities due to recent equity market strength and expectations of softer global growth ahead. We also felt it was appropriate to take some profits given the sector's recent gains, particularly as interest rates look set to remain higher for longer and a selloff in equity markets remains a possibility.

Overall, the managed portfolio is aligned with its long-term asset allocation as we wait patiently for opportunities.

Dynamic positioning: Managing positions over the next 12-18 months

We believe the main uncertainty for markets is the outlook for the US economy. Whilst economic data so far this year has proven more resilient than markets initially expected, our base case remains that a recession in the US is more likely than not. Inflation globally should continue to ease as demand slows, allowing central banks to hit the pause button. Nonetheless, heightened short-term market volatility is likely to remain given responses across markets to ongoing inflation prints and central bank interest rate decisions.

We retain the same themes as recent months, including a preference for emerging markets over developed markets.

Long-term investing: Positioning for 5 years and beyond

The portfolio has a long-term asset allocation of 98% to return generating assets. Growth asset valuations have decreased significantly year to date but are marginally higher than long-term averages in the US and similar to long-term averages across other developed markets, such as Australia. Long term forward looking return expectations for US shares and high-yield debt have improved during the year, but the economic outlook creates uncertainty in the near term. Given this, growth assets are still preferred due to superior returns relative to defensive assets over the medium term.

Strategically, the portfolio has positions in cheaper and higher momentum securities as per our researched beliefs.

There is a cash allocation of 2% in the portfolio.
