1. About Russell Investment Management Ltd

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 1 of each PDS:

Russell Investments

We may appoint a number of different money managers (including other members of Russell Investments) (each an “investment manager”) to manage some or all of the assets of the Fund. We may also manage the Fund’s assets ourselves and/ or the Fund may invest in managed investment schemes managed by RIM, third party investment managers or other members of Russell Investments, established in Australia or in other jurisdictions (“underlying funds”).

Additional information on investment managers and underlying funds is set out on our website at <https://russellinvestments.com/au>.

You should read the important information about ‘the investment managers’ before making a decision - go to <https://russellinvestments.com/au> for more information in relation to the investment managers.

The material relating to the investment managers may change between the time when you read this Additional Information Booklet and the day when you acquire the product.

Custodian and administrator

We have appointed State Street Australia Ltd (“State Street”) as the custodian and administrator of the Fund. In these capacities, State Street will provide custodial and certain administrative services to the Fund. State Street has not been involved in any way in the preparation of the PDS and is named only for information purposes. State Street has given, and as at the date hereof has not withdrawn, its written consent to be named as the custodian and administrator of the Fund. In addition to the above arrangements, the Responsible Entity may also hold some of the assets of the Fund, in particular the Fund’s interests in underlying funds, in accordance with its licence and the terms of the Constitution.

Auditors

The Fund and the compliance plan for the Fund are required to be audited annually. We have engaged an independent auditor to perform each of these audits.

2. How the Fund works

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 2 of each PDS:

Reporting on your investment

For investors accessing the Fund through a nominee, please contact the operator for this information. Otherwise, refer to the information below.

Confirmations	We will send you a transaction statement each time you transact.
Monthly reporting	We will send you a monthly transaction statement.
Annual reporting	We will send you an annual tax statement (if the Fund is an Attribution Managed Investment Trust (AMIT), we’ll send you an AMIT Member Annual (AMMA) Statement). We will also provide or make available to you an annual report.
Distributions	We will send you a distribution statement each time a distribution is made.

Investing through a nominee

Wholesale Clients can invest in the Fund directly. Retail Clients can invest in the Fund through a nominee. We refer to people who invest through a nominee as ‘Indirect Investors’.

To invest, Indirect Investors must complete the application forms provided by the nominee. Indirect Investors will receive reports from their nominee, not us.

Indirect Investors should direct any enquiries or complaints in relation to the Fund to their nominee.

To withdraw from a Fund, Indirect Investors need to contact their nominee for instructions.

To invest or withdraw, the nominee needs to follow the same steps as Wholesale Clients seeking to invest in or withdraw from the Fund.

Indirect Investors do not themselves become investors in the Fund. Instead it is generally the nominee who invests on behalf of Indirect Investors and who has the rights of an investor in the Fund. Nominees exercise those rights or not in accordance with their arrangements with the Indirect Investor.

Some provisions of the Fund's Constitution and the PDS are not relevant for Indirect Investors. For example, Indirect Investors cannot attend investor meetings or transfer units where they are not themselves direct investors in the Fund.

You must satisfy yourself as to your choice of nominee and the terms on which you engage them, as we do not guarantee the performance of any nominee.

Any reference to 'you' in the PDS (including this Additional Information Booklet), unless otherwise indicated, should be construed by an Indirect Investor as a reference to the nominee or any other person who is a Wholesale Client in the Fund.

The remainder of this section 2 in this Additional Information Booklet applies to Wholesale Clients only.

Initial investment

To make an initial investment in the Fund you need to first contact Russell Investments Fund Operations for instructions on how to invest. You will then need to complete the Application Form accompanying the PDS and the forms contained in the Client Account Manual, which is available from Russell Investments Fund Operations.

Processing applications

Generally, applications for units are processed each business day. If we receive your completed Application Form or additional investment instruction and application money by the 'cut off time' on a business day, we will generally process your application using the entry price for that business day. The 'cut off time' for processing an application using the entry price for a business day is 12:00 noon Sydney time.

If we receive your completed Application Form or additional investment and application money after the 'cut off time', or on a day that is not a business day, we generally process your application using the entry price for the next business day after we receive it.

Generally, we will send you confirmation of your investment within 5 business days of us processing your application.

Reinvestment of distributions occurs after a distribution has been declared and therefore the reinvestment may occur on a day that is not a business day if the distribution period ends on a day that is not a business day.

Switching

You can request to switch between Funds by sending us details of the Funds you are switching from and to, the dollar amount, your name and your account ID. The request needs to be signed by the relevant authorised signatories.

If you are switching into a Fund in which you have not held units before, you will need to fill out the Application Form that accompanies the PDS for the relevant Fund.

As a switch is a withdrawal from one Fund and application in another, there may be tax consequences. We recommend you seek tax advice. Buy-sell spreads will also apply.

Unit prices and valuation

We generally determine entry and exit prices each business day. The unit prices for each class of units in the Fund are calculated using the net asset value of that class, divided by the number of units in that class. The entry and exit prices are the unit prices of that class adjusted for any buy-sell spreads.

Assets of a Fund are valued in accordance with our securities valuation policy, usually at the current market value. Where the Fund has exposure to certain types of assets for which daily prices are unavailable (e.g. alternatives, private equity, or unlisted property/infrastructure), these assets may be valued less frequently when compared to other assets of the Fund.

The base currency of each Fund is Australian dollars. Where valuations or unit prices are provided in another currency for example, New Zealand dollars, this information is provided for indicative reporting purposes only. The exchange rate used to provide these indicative valuations is the Reuters London 4pm close spot rate.

You can contact us for a copy of our policies on exercising discretions when calculating unit prices, free of charge.

Your account balance

Your account balance changes as investments are made and as investment returns are added. Fees, taxes, expenses, income and investment gains and losses will affect your account balance.

The unit price fluctuates in line with the market value of assets held in the Fund. Generally, if market values are going up, the unit price rises, and if market values are declining, the unit price falls.

If the unit price increases relative to the original unit price at which you received your units, you have made an investment gain and your account balance rises accordingly. If the unit price decreases, you have made an investment loss and your account balance will fall.

Making a withdrawal

To withdraw your money, you need to contact Russell Investments Fund Operations.

Generally, withdrawal requests are processed each business day. If we receive a withdrawal request by the 'cut off time' on a business day, we will generally process the request using the exit price for that business day. If we receive a request after the 'cut off time' or on a day that is not a business day, we will generally process the request using the exit price for the next business day after we receive it.

The 'cut off time' is 12:00 noon Sydney time.

Generally, withdrawal monies will be paid within 14 days of us processing a withdrawal request. We will send you a transaction statement with details of your withdrawal.

The Constitution allows us more time to process withdrawal requests and pay withdrawal monies than outlined above.

Please note while every endeavour is made to comply with the payment terms for withdrawals referred to above, under the Constitution of each Fund with the exception of the Russell Investments Emerging Markets Fund, we do have up to 30 days to process your redemption request (unless withdrawals are suspended), and up to 30 days to pay the withdrawal monies after the date your withdrawal request is processed.

Subject to certain conditions, we may transfer assets of the Fund to the investor in satisfaction of that withdrawal request.

The withdrawal conditions described above assume that the Fund is 'liquid' for the purposes of the Corporations Act 2001. We are currently of the view that the Funds are 'liquid'. Under the Corporations Act 2001, if a Fund is not liquid, we may offer investors the opportunity to withdraw from the Fund on a periodic basis, but we are not obliged to do so. Where no such offer is made, investors have no right to withdraw from the Fund.

Transferring units

All transfers must be made in the form that we require. We have the discretion to refuse to register any transfer of units in the Fund.

Contact Russell Investments Fund Operations for more information in relation to how you may transfer units in a Fund. A transfer may have tax implications. We recommend you seek legal and tax advice before requesting a transfer.

Unit classes

The Fund may offer different classes of units. Identical rights attach to all units within a class. However, the rights and obligations attaching to different classes of units may vary, and are set out in the Constitution and the relevant offer document.

4. Risks of managed investment schemes

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 4 of each PDS:

Other risks to consider

Investors should be aware that there are risks associated with investing in a Fund. While section 4 of each PDS summarises the significant risks for each Fund, the following table identifies the relevant risks that apply to each of the Funds (those marked ●). Each of these risks is described below the table.

Risk	Interest rate risk	Derivatives risk	Liquidity risk	Counterparty and settlements risk	Currency risk	Emerging markets risk	Credit risk	Political risk	Hostilities, terrorist and pandemic risks	Securities lending risk	Market risk	Underlying funds' absence of regulatory oversight	Operational risk	ESG risk
Russell Investments Global Bond Fund	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●

- Interest rate risk: the Fund may be sensitive to movements in domestic and international interest rates. Generally, the value of fixed income securities will change inversely with changes in interest rates. As interest rates rise, the market value of fixed income securities tends to decrease, and vice versa.
- Derivatives risk: the Fund may be exposed to exchange-traded and over-the counter derivative instruments including but not limited to currency forwards and swaps, interest rate and total return swaps and futures and options. Derivatives usually derive their value from the value of a physical asset, interest rate, exchange rate or market index. They can be used to manage certain risks in investment portfolios; however, they can also expose a portfolio to additional risks. A risk, though not unique to derivatives, includes the possibility that the position is difficult or costly to reverse. In addition, there is a risk of an adverse movement relative to the asset, interest rate, exchange rate or index underlying the derivative, as derivatives do not always perfectly or even highly correlate or track the value of the assets, rates or indices they are designed to track. A derivative contract may involve leverage - i.e. it provides exposure to a potential gain or loss from a change in the level of the market price of a security, currency or basket index in a notional amount that exceeds the amount of cash or assets required to establish or maintain the derivative contract. Consequently, an adverse change in the relevant price level can result in a loss of capital that is more exaggerated than would have resulted from an investment that did not involve the use of leverage. Accordingly, derivative instruments can be highly volatile and expose investors to a high risk of loss.

- Liquidity risk: the Fund may be exposed to assets including other managed investment schemes that have restricted or limited liquidity. In extreme circumstances, this may result in delays in processing withdrawal requests due to general market interruptions or inadequate market depth.
- Counterparty and settlement risk: the Fund may be exposed to counterparty and settlement risk. These risks are influenced by, amongst other things, market practices (e.g. settlement and custody practices), the creditworthiness of the parties a Fund is exposed to including derivative counterparties, and the level of government regulation in countries in which a Fund invests.
- Currency risk: the Funds that have exposure to foreign assets will be exposed to currency movements. Currency movements may affect the performance of these Funds. Some Funds may use currency hedging programs.
For the Funds that are identified as fully hedged, although the benchmark is to be 100% currency hedged, some foreign currency exposures can remain which may affect the investment values of these Funds.
- Emerging markets risk: the Funds exposed to emerging market securities may be subject to higher levels of market volatility leading to higher general investment risk. Interest rate and currency risks may be greater due to higher levels of volatility in the economies of emerging markets. Furthermore, emerging market securities are often less liquid than the securities of developed markets. Counterparty and settlement risks are also increased.
- Credit risk: the Fund may be exposed to credit risk. Credit risk refers to the issuer of a debt instrument or banks holding cash deposits failing to meet an obligation to pay periodic interest, to repay the principal sum at maturity or to otherwise honour its obligations. Unrated or low grade debt securities are generally subject to greater risk of loss of principal and interest than higher rated securities.
- Political risk: the Fund's investments may be affected by uncertainties such as political developments, changes in law or government policies, and currency repatriation restrictions on foreign investment in some countries to which the Fund may be exposed.
- Hostilities, terrorist and pandemic risks: acts of terrorist violence, political unrest, armed regional and international hostilities and international responses to these hostilities, natural disasters, global health risks or pandemics or the threat of or perceived potential for these events could have a negative impact on the performance of the Fund. These events could adversely affect levels of business activity and precipitate sudden significant changes in regional and global economic conditions and cycles. These events also pose significant risks to people and physical facilities and operations around the world.
A global pandemic may cause extreme volatility and limited liquidity in securities markets and such markets may be subject to governmental intervention. Certain Governments may impose restrictions on the manufacture of goods and the provision of services in addition to the free movement of persons. This may have a material impact on the activities of businesses, their profitability and their ability to generate positive cash flow. In these market conditions there is a much higher risk of credit defaults and bankruptcies. As a result, this may have a material impact on the performance of the Fund, result in greater market or liquidity risk, or cause difficulty valuing the Fund's assets or achieving the Fund's objective.
There is a possibility with the severe decline in economic activity and restrictions imposed, of disruption of electricity, other public utilities or network services, as well as system failures at facilities or otherwise affecting businesses which could adversely affect the performance of the Fund. A global pandemic may result in employees of Russell Investments and certain of the other service providers to the Fund to be absent from work or work remotely for prolonged periods of time. The ability of the employees of Russell Investments and/or other service providers to the Fund to work effectively on a remote basis may adversely impact the day to day operations of the Fund.
- Securities Lending Risk (only applicable to the Russell Investments Emerging Markets Fund): the Fund may be exposed to securities lending risk. There is a risk that the borrower may become insolvent or otherwise become unable to meet, or refuse to honour, its obligations to return the loaned assets. In this event, a Fund could experience delays in recovering assets and may incur a capital loss.
- Market risk: the market price of the Fund's investments may fluctuate as a result of such factors as economic conditions, regulations, sentiment and geopolitical events as well as environmental, social and technological changes. These fluctuations may impact on the value of the investments in the Fund which will impact on the unit price of the Fund.
- Underlying funds' absence of regulatory oversight: the Fund may be exposed to managed investment schemes established in other jurisdictions that do not have an equivalent level of investor protection to that which is provided in Australia. Investment in such schemes may also adversely impact the transparency of a Fund.
- Operational risk: the Fund is subject to a number of operational risks; in particular, the Fund relies on a number of service providers to operate the Fund, including service providers to supply data in relation to investment exclusions. There is the risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, people and systems, or from external events. Adverse impacts may arise internally through human error, technology or infrastructure changes, or through external events, such as third-party failures or crisis events. Russell Investments has processes designed to manage these risks. Even then, errors may on occasion occur in operating the Fund. If an error occurs we will endeavour to rectify it. Similarly if you identify an error, please let us know and we will endeavour to rectify it.
- ESG risk: there is the risk of loss resulting from ESG considerations, including from limiting the Fund's universe of potential investments. Russell Investments also relies on data sourced from independent vendors (including Sustainalytics) in order to determine companies that meet its exclusion criteria for the Fund. The independent vendors used by Russell Investments do not assess all companies in the investible universe of the Fund at all times (whether due to a lack of available company data, corporate actions or otherwise).

5. How we invest your money

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 5 of each PDS.

Investment Management

As well as appointing investment managers to manage the assets of the Fund, we, or other members of Russell Investments, may directly manage a portion of the assets of the Fund or of an underlying fund in which the Fund is invested.

Russell Investments may implement investments in listed securities using an enhanced portfolio implementation (EPI) approach. This is designed to reduce portfolio turnover and therefore reduce transaction costs. With EPI, Russell Investments receives model portfolios from the Fund's selected investment managers and Russell Investments manages the portfolio of shares in a single account. The EPI approach centralises trading at the total fund level. This compares to a traditional multi-manager approach where each investment manager trades within their own account, without regard to the activities of the other investment managers in the Fund.

Derivatives

Derivatives such as futures, options, swaps and forward contracts may be used by the Funds or underlying funds from time to time to: achieve a desired investment position without buying or selling the underlying asset; implement investment strategies; as a hedging mechanism to protect against changes in the market value of existing investments; or to manage actual or anticipated risk.

In particular, these Funds may use futures contracts to equitise cash holdings. Those Funds that have foreign currency exposures may use derivatives to manage currency exposures.

The Funds that invest in fixed income securities may use a range of derivatives to manage interest rate, currency, duration and credit risk. Derivatives may also be used to create net short positions in the assets of some of the Funds.

Changing investment managers and/or underlying funds

We may change the investment managers and/or underlying funds of the Fund from time to time without notice.

Updated information may be found by searching the Fund product profile on our website at <https://russellinvestments.com/au>. You can contact us if you would like a paper copy of this information free of charge.

Leverage

It is not our intention to borrow money in relation to the Funds, other than to meet short-term liquidity requirements.

ESG considerations

All Funds

Russell Investments' policy is to, where relevant, integrate responsible investing into our third party investment manager evaluation and our portfolio management processes. This section explains what responsible investing means for the Funds. Capitalised terms used in this "ESG considerations" section are defined in the Glossary.

1. Appointment of third party investment managers

Russell Investments employs a ranking system in our manager research process. It incorporates factors that we believe impact third party investment managers' ability to generate returns for our clients. We have an environmental, social and governance (ESG) rank, which considers labour standards and environmental considerations. Each manager we research has an explicit ESG rank on a scale of 1-5, with 5 being the highest ESG rating a manager can attain. There are 4 sub-scores based on a manager's commitment to ESG, their awareness of the risk and return impact of ESG, their implementation of ESG insights, and their active ownership. A ranking of 3 represents a ranking consistent with the peer group average. This rank is incorporated into our:

1. third party investment manager evaluation process to determine whether the manager appropriately assesses the risk and return impacts of ESG related considerations on individual portfolio holdings and the overall portfolio construction process; and
2. overall view of the investment manager.

For additional information on responsible investing, including our ESG rank, active ownership and engagement policy, refer to <https://russellinvestments.com/au/about-us/responsible-investing>.

The Russell Investments Global Bond Fund targets a reduction in Carbon Footprint of at least 20% relative to its Benchmark, in respect of the Corporate Debt portion of the securities it holds. This is primarily achieved by excluding Prohibited Coal Companies. If, however, following the employment of this exclusion, the Fund has not met its Carbon Footprint reduction target, Russell Investments will evaluate the Carbon Footprint of all remaining Corporate Debt securities held by the Fund and will take measures to ensure that its holdings are adjusted to sufficiently reduce Carbon Footprint in order to meet the Fund's Carbon Footprint reduction target.

The Fund does not currently have Carbon Emissions reduction targets in respect of its non-Corporate Debt securities holdings, due to the low Carbon Emissions data coverage rates available for these securities. Should this change, the carbon reduction targets for the Fund may be revised to incorporate Carbon Emissions for those securities.

Aside from Prohibited Coal Companies, Tobacco Manufacturers, Controversial Weapons Producers, and those in non-compliance with UNGC Principles are also excluded from the Corporate Debt portion of the securities held by the Fund.

2. Exclusions

Russell Investments recognises the importance of responsible investing and ESG issues for our clients. We employ certain investment exclusions to the Fund. The exclusions that are employed by the Fund are specified in the remainder of this “ESG considerations” section.

- Tobacco Manufacturer

Companies which Directly manufacture tobacco products.

- Controversial Weapons Producers: anti-personnel mines, cluster munitions, and nuclear weapons

Companies that are involved, either Directly or Indirectly, in the production of the core weapon system, or components/services of the core weapon system that are considered tailor made and essential for the lethal use of the weapon.

- Prohibited Coal Companies (before 1 November 2023)

Companies which derive more than 10 per cent of their Revenue from coal power generation or mining thermal coal (i.e. thermal coal extraction), except for companies which either:

- (i) derive at least 10% of their power generation from renewable energy sources; or
- (ii) have made a public commitment to divest from their coal-related activities or reach zero emissions by 2050, provided in either case that any such companies derive less than 25 per cent of their Revenue from coal power generation or mining thermal coal (i.e. thermal coal extraction).

- Prohibited Coal Companies (from 1 November 2023)

Companies which derive more than 10 per cent of their Revenue from coal power generation or mining thermal coal (i.e. thermal coal extraction).

- Non-compliance with United Nations Global Compact Principles

Companies identified as breaching any of the United Nations Global Compact Principles (“UNGC Principles”), having regard to the following considerations.

Russell Investments utilises the services of Sustainalytics to identify companies that are aligned to the UNGC Principles and are therefore deemed by Russell Investments as having good governance practices. Companies deemed to not be aligned with the UNGC Principles are placed by us on an exclusions list for the Fund (subject to the following exception) which is updated generally quarterly by us.

If a company is identified by Sustainalytics as being non-compliant with the UNGC Principles, the company may still be investable if Russell Investments determines that it does in fact follow good governance practices despite the UNGC Principles assessment by Sustainalytics. In order to reach this conclusion, Russell Investments must carry out its own further analysis of the company’s governance practices. This additional layer of analysis is undertaken based on advice from a third party investment manager and/or from Russell Investments’ own research or insights (supplementing the research provided by Sustainalytics). The review will include an assessment of the company’s labour practices, management structure and tax compliance. Following the further analysis, Russell Investments may determine, by recommendation from its investment and responsible investing teams and by determination of the relevant Russell Investments Global Exclusion Committee, that the company does in fact demonstrate good governance practices. Only after such a determination is made, can the company form part of the Fund. This further analysis of a company by Russell Investments is overseen and managed by Russell Investments’ Global Exclusions Committee.

If a company is identified as having breached a UNGC Principle by Sustainalytics and it is found to already be held by the Fund during a quarterly update to the Fund’s exclusions list, Russell Investments may undertake the further analysis outlined above to determine whether, in fact, the company follows good governance practices. If no such determination is made before the next quarterly update to the Fund exclusions list, the relevant company will be added to the Fund’s exclusions list.

Limitation on exclusions

Russell Investments relies on data sourced from independent vendors (including Sustainalytics) in order to determine company securities that meet its exclusion criteria for the Fund. The independent vendors used by Russell Investments do not assess all companies in the investible universe of the Fund at all times (whether due to a lack of available company data, corporate actions or otherwise). As a result, Russell Investments (or its third party investment managers) may acquire or hold a company security in the Fund that has not been assessed by the independent vendors and would otherwise be required to be excluded by the Fund’s exclusions criteria.

The exclusions described above apply to companies only. As such, investment exclusions may not apply to a portion of the assets held by the Fund. Fund holdings in cash, derivatives, and debt securities issued by supranationals, governments, quasi-governments or agencies, or structured credit securities (including mortgage and asset backed securities) do not form part of the holdings of the Fund that are subject to the exclusions.

In addition, where exclusions are employed by the Fund, such exclusions would not apply to any third party fund held by the Fund (unless otherwise specified in this PDS).

Where exclusions are employed by a Fund, exclusions lists are reviewed and updated regularly. Russell Investments may identify securities held by the Fund from time-to-time that are required to be excluded by the Fund's exclusions criteria. Unless otherwise specified, when Russell Investments becomes aware that such securities are held by the Fund, it will divest those securities within 60 days.

Standard Risk Measure

We have adopted the Standard Risk Measure (SRM) approach to describe the Fund's risk level. The SRM measures the likelihood of a product experiencing a loss based on its expected return and risk profile. This is commonly expressed as the expected number of negative annual return over a 20 year period. We have categorised the Funds into the following risk levels based on their SRM results. The SRM is not a complete assessment of all forms of investment risk, for instance it does not detail what the size of a negative return could be or the potential for a positive return to be less than an investor may require to meet their objectives.

Investors should ensure they are comfortable with the risks and potential losses associated with their choice of investment as described in the PDS.

Low	Expected to have up to 1 negative annual return over a 20 year period (SRM 1 to 2)
Medium	Expected to have between 1 to 4 negative annual returns over a 20 year period (SRM 3 to 5)
High	Expected to have between 4 to 6 negative annual returns over a 20 year period (SRM 6)
Very high	Expected to have 6 or more negative annual returns over a 20 year period (SRM 7)

6. Fees and costs

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 6 of each PDS:

Additional explanation of fees and costs

Management fees and costs

Management fees and costs include:

- a management fee;
- indirect costs (including management fees and costs of underlying funds); and
- expense recoveries.

These amounts are payable out of Fund assets or the assets of underlying funds in which a Fund may invest and are reflected in the unit price.

Management fees and costs do not include transaction costs and other costs that an investor would incur if the investor invested directly in the underlying assets. More information on transaction costs is set out below under the heading "Transaction Costs".

Management Fee

RIM charges a management fee which consists of an investment management fee for managing and operating the relevant Fund and a Responsible Entity fee. The management fee is calculated and accrued daily and is generally payable to us monthly from the assets of the relevant Fund. The amount of this fee can be negotiated.

Indirect Costs

Indirect costs are any amounts the Responsible Entity knows or reasonably ought to know, or where this is not the case, reasonably estimates have or will reduce, whether directly or indirectly, a Fund's returns or the amount or value of the income of, or assets attributable to that Fund or an underlying fund in which that Fund invests other than the management fee and expense recoveries.

In particular, indirect costs include, but are not limited to:

- management fees and costs (comprising management fees, indirect costs and expense recoveries of the underlying funds); and
- a reasonable estimate of the costs (if any) of investing in over-the-counter (OTC) derivatives used for investment exposure purposes (both at the Fund level or in the underlying funds).

Transaction costs of all OTC derivatives are set out below under the heading "Transaction costs".

Unless otherwise stated in the relevant Fund's PDS, the indirect costs component of the management fees and costs figure set out in the fees and costs summary in each Fund's PDS is calculated on the basis of the actual amount incurred by that Fund for the previous financial year and RIM's reasonable estimate of such costs where information was not available as at the date of the relevant PDS and this Additional Information Booklet or where RIM was unable to determine the exact amount.

Indirect costs are reflected in the unit price of the Fund as and when incurred. Indirect costs are not an additional fee paid to RIM. Indirect costs may vary from year to year, including to the extent that they rely on estimates. This amount is not an indication or guarantee of the amount that may be charged in the future.

Expense recoveries (including taxes)

Normal operating expenses

All expenses relating to the proper performance of our duties as Responsible Entity of the Fund are recoverable from the Fund, including but not limited to custody, administration, registry costs, GST (less any reduced input tax credits), Responsible Entity costs, legal fees, reporting and audit expenses.

Unless otherwise stated in the relevant Fund's PDS, the expense recoveries component of the management fees and costs figure set out in the fees and costs summary of each Fund's PDS includes the estimated normal operating expense recoveries of that Fund, which is the actual amount incurred by that Fund for the previous financial year and RIM's reasonable estimates of such normal operating expenses where information was not available as at the date of the relevant PDS and this Additional Information Booklet or where RIM was unable to determine the exact amount.

Abnormal expense recoveries

RIM may also recover abnormal expenses (such as litigation, the cost of investor meetings or other costs if incurred in the future). Such abnormal expenses may be recovered from the assets of a Fund as an additional expense where permitted under the constitution.

Abnormal expenses are not generally incurred during the day-to-day operation of a Fund and are not necessarily incurred in any given year. In circumstances where such events do occur, we may decide not to recover these from a Fund.

The management fees and costs figure disclosed in the fees and costs summary of each Fund's PDS includes the estimated abnormal expense recoveries of that Fund, which is the actual amount incurred by that Fund for the previous financial year and RIM's reasonable estimates of such abnormal expenses where information was not available as at the date of the relevant PDS and this Additional Information Booklet or where RIM was unable to determine the exact amount.

Abnormal expenses may vary from year to year including to the extent that they rely on estimates. This amount is not an indication or guarantee of the amount that may be charged in the future.

Different fees

We may negotiate different fees with investors who are Wholesale Clients, at our discretion, subject to the Corporations Act and any relevant ASIC policies. Accordingly, we may waive or rebate some of our fees (or issue units in the Fund) to these Wholesale Clients so that they pay reduced fees. This is generally because they invest large amounts of money in the Fund. We cannot enter into individual fee arrangements with Retail Clients. Investors are able to contact us using the contact details set out in the 'How to Contact Us' section of this Additional Information Booklet.

Transaction costs

In managing the investments of a Fund, transaction costs such as brokerage, settlement costs, clearing costs, government taxes and charges, buy-sell spreads of underlying funds and bid/offer spreads may be incurred. Transaction costs of over-the-counter (OTC) derivatives may also be incurred by the Fund or an underlying fund.

These costs may be incurred by investing directly in the underlying securities but may also include costs incurred by an underlying fund that would be transaction costs if they had been incurred by the Fund. Such costs arise whenever the Fund buys or sells assets to invest applications, fund withdrawals or to generally manage the Funds in accordance with its investment objective.

Where these costs arise as a result of applications and withdrawals, these costs will generally be covered by the inclusion of a buy/sell spread in the purchase or withdrawal price. Please refer to the 'Buy/sell' spread section below for further details.

Transaction costs are paid out of the Fund's assets as and when incurred and they are an additional cost of investing to the investor where they have not already been recovered by the buy/sell spread and are not a fee paid to RIM.

The amount of transaction costs will vary from year to year depending on the type, size and frequency of transactions. This means that estimated and/or historical costs may not be an accurate indicator of the transaction costs an investor may pay in the future.

The estimated transaction costs disclosed in the fees and costs summary in the PDS are shown net of any amount recovered by the buy/sell spread charged by RIM and are calculated using the Fund's actual transaction costs incurred for the previous financial year and RIM's reasonable estimate of such costs where information was not available as at the date of the PDS and Additional Information Booklet or where RIM was unable to determine the exact amount.

The information in the table below sets out for each Fund, the estimated total gross transaction costs, the amount that will be recouped through the buy/sell spread, and the net transaction costs after buy/sell spread recoveries (or an estimate if the amount is not known for each Fund), presented as a percentage of each Fund's net assets. The resulting estimated net transaction costs are borne by all investors in each Fund and are reflected in the unit price.

Fund	Estimated total gross transaction costs (% p.a.)	Estimated costs recouped through buy/sell spread (% p.a.)	Estimated net transaction costs (% p.a.)
Russell Investments Global Bond Fund – Classes B and D	0.01%	0.01%	0.00%
Russell Investments Global Bond Fund – Class Y	0.01%	0.01%	0.00%

1. This amount includes net transaction costs incurred in any underlying funds, where applicable.
2. This amount reflects the total gross transaction costs incurred for the relevant Fund for the previous financial year including RIM's reasonable estimate of such costs where information was not available as at the date of the PDS and this Additional Information Booklet or where RIM was unable to determine the exact amount.
3. This is the estimated percentage by which the Fund's investment return has been reduced by transaction costs. Numbers may not equal the transaction costs minus the costs recouped due to rounding.

You should read the important information about the current buy/sell spread before making a decision - go to <https://russellinvestments.com/au/disclosures>.

The material relating to buy/sell spreads may change between the time when you read this Additional Information Booklet and the day when you acquire the product.

Each Fund's estimated and/or historical transaction costs may not be an accurate indicator of the actual transaction costs you may incur in the future.

Buy/sell spread

The buy/sell spread covers our estimate of the transaction costs (such as brokerage and settlement costs) of a Fund buying or selling underlying assets when you invest or withdraw from the Fund.

The difference between the unit price and the entry price is called the 'buy spread'. The difference between the unit price and the exit price is called the 'sell spread'. The buy/sell spread covers our estimate of the transaction costs (such as brokerage and settlement costs) of buying or selling underlying assets when you invest or withdraw from the Fund. The buy/sell spread is an additional cost to you and will impact the return on your investment. The buy/sell spread is retained by the Fund, not by us or the investment managers. We reserve the right to change the buy/sell spread for the Fund at any time. For updated information visit <https://russellinvestments.com/au/disclosures>.

An estimate of the buy/sell spread applicable to applications and redemptions from each Fund is set out in the fees and costs summary in the PDS of each Fund. In estimating the buy-sell spread, RIM has assumed that the applications or withdrawals are made during normal market conditions, as in times of stressed or dislocated market conditions (which are not possible for RIM to predict) the buy/sell spread may increase significantly and it is not possible to reasonably estimate the buy/sell spread that may be applied in such situations.

Where there is a significant aggregate application or aggregate withdrawal from a Fund (i.e. by one or more investors), the market costs of buying or selling securities may be significantly higher than the stated buy/sell spread. RIM retains discretion to allocate full market costs associated with a large transaction to the transacting investor(s) to ensure non-transacting investors are not significantly adversely affected.

The tables below provide a hypothetical example of how the cost of the buy/sell spread can affect a $10,000 application for units that is subsequently withdrawn from a hypothetical fund. For simplicity, the daily unit price for the fund is assumed to be constant at $1.00 per unit.

Assume the fund currently has a buy spread of 0.27% and a sell spread of 0.25%. This means that the "entry price" of a unit would be 0.27% higher than the daily unit price (i.e. $1.0027 per unit), and the "exit price" would be 0.25% lower than the daily unit price (i.e. $0.9975 per unit).

On a $10,000 application at the entry price of $1.0027 per unit, an investor would receive 9,973 units. These units would be worth $9,973 at the daily unit price of $1.00 per unit.

Application amount	Entry price (daily unit price plus buy spread)	No of units issued
$10,000	$1.0027 per unit ($$1 + ($1 \times 0.0027)$)	9,973

On a withdrawal of these 9,973 units at the exit price of $0.9975 per unit the investor would receive approximately $9,948.

No of units redeemed	Exit Price (daily unit price less sell spread)	Withdrawal amount
9,973	$0.9975 per unit ($$1 - ($1 \times 0.0025)$)	$9,948

The example shows that the total cost of the 0.27% buy spread and 0.25% sell spread for a $10,000 application is approximately $52 as the investor only receives $9,948 on withdrawal.

Please note this example is provided for illustrative purposes only. The actual cost to you of the buy/sell spread depends on the amount you invest or withdraw and the current buy/sell spread of the Fund you have chosen.

You should read the important information about the current buy/sell spread before making a decision - go to <https://russellinvestments.com/au/disclosures>.

The material relating to buy/sell spreads may change between the time when you read this Additional Information Booklet and the day when you acquire the product.

Commissions and other benefits received

Subject to the Corporations Act and relevant law, we, or members of RIM, may receive commissions and other benefits (e.g. research) from brokers in respect of trades for the Fund. These benefits may flow to the Fund and to other funds managed by us. We instruct the investment managers of the Funds to trade only with brokers who will provide best execution, regardless of whether these trades are placed with brokers related to us or not.

Related party payments

Members and affiliates of RIM may receive fees on normal commercial terms for providing services to the Fund. In particular, Russell Investments Implementation Services LLC (RIIS), a related party of the Responsible Entity based in Seattle, USA provides implementation and execution services for the Funds on an arm's length basis. RIIS receives brokerage of up to 0.2% of the value of a trade for providing these services to the Funds. RIIS may also receive a management fee where it is appointed as an investment manager which is paid out of the Responsible Entity's management fee so it does not represent an additional cost to you.

RIM engages an external company to provide comparative cost and best execution analysis on a regular basis, so as to ensure that the RIIS brokerage services are provided on an arm's length basis.

As all of the abovementioned related party transactions occur on an arm's length basis, member approval is not required. We do not see any risks associated with these related party transactions other than normal arm's length business risks. The Responsible Entity has policies and procedures that govern related party transactions. Specifically the compliance plan for the Fund contains a section covering related party transactions and the Responsible Entity also has a conflicts policy that is relevant to such transactions.

Records of alternative forms of remuneration that is not conflicted remuneration

Subject to the Corporations Act and relevant law, occasionally, we may provide benefits of small value to Australian financial services licensees and/or their representatives who recommend a Fund to Retail Clients such as professional development, sponsorship and entertainment for financial advisers and dealer groups, where the law permits. The cost of any alternative remuneration will be paid out of our management fee, so it does not represent any additional cost to you. We maintain records of these benefits as required by the Corporations Regulations 2001 (Cth). These records will be provided to you on request within one month and we may charge a reasonable cost for obtaining and giving the particulars to you.

Taxation of the Fund

To the extent permissible, the Responsible Entity will claim on behalf of the Funds a proportion of this GST as a reduced input tax credit. For more information about tax, refer to section 7 of each Fund's PDS and section 7 of this Additional Information Booklet.

Updated information

The indirect costs, expense recoveries, and transaction costs as described in this Additional Information Booklet are based on the knowledge or reasonable estimates of the Responsible Entity. These estimates may be based on a number of factors including previous financial year information and information provided by investment managers and/or underlying funds.

These fees and costs are subject to change from time to time. Updated information that is not materially adverse to investors will be updated online at <https://russellinvestments.com/au> or you may obtain a paper copy of any updated information from us free of charge on request.

7. How managed investment schemes are taxed

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 7 of each PDS:

Australian Taxation

The following summary of Australian taxation matters is a general guide in relation to the Australian taxation implications applicable to the Funds for Australian resident unit holders who hold their units in the Funds on capital account and are not considered to be carrying on a business of investing, trading in investments or investing for the purpose of profit making by sale. It is intended as an outline of some of the Australian tax issues which may affect an investment in the Funds and should not be relied upon as a complete statement of all the potential tax considerations which may arise upon investing in the Funds.

The summary is based on the Australian tax laws as at the date of the PDS. The Australian tax laws are subject to continual change, and as the tax treatment applicable to unitholders may differ, it is recommended that all unitholders seek their own professional advice on the taxation implications before investing in the Funds.

Non-residents should seek specific advice from their tax advisers on the Australian tax implications of investing in the Funds.

Tax position of the Funds

The Funds are Australian resident unit trusts for Australian tax purposes. The tax position of a Fund and unit holders will depend on whether the Fund qualifies as a Managed Investment Trust (MIT) and in turn, an Attribution Managed Investment Trust (AMIT) for the income year, as described below.

Income tax

Each Fund may qualify as a MIT for a given year of income. In turn, a MIT may further qualify and elect to be treated as an AMIT. Regardless of the classification, it is intended that the Funds be treated as 'flow through' for income tax purposes, where for each year of income, the unit holders of a Fund are taxed on the taxable income of that Fund and not the Responsible Entity.

If a Fund incurs a tax loss for an income year, the Fund cannot pass that loss to unit holders. Instead, the Fund may carry the loss forward to offset taxable income of subsequent income years, subject to the Fund meeting certain conditions.

Capital gains

In the first year that a Fund qualifies as a MIT, an irrevocable election may be made to treat eligible assets (such as company shares and units in unit trusts but excluding derivatives and foreign exchange contracts) on capital account (after capital losses have been recouped). If the election is not made, gains/(losses) from the disposal of eligible investments should be treated as revenue gains or losses.

With exceptions, all the Funds have made the capital account election. The MIT capital account election will continue to apply to the Funds under the AMIT regime.

Where the Fund is also an AMIT, it may attribute trust components (including capital gains or income, arising on the sale of securities to meet a significant redemption), on a fair and reasonable basis to the redeeming unit holder, as permitted by the AMIT regime. Furthermore, for a given income year:

(a) where cash distributed by an AMIT is greater than the trust components attributed, the cost base of units may be reduced and reductions in excess of the cost base may result in an immediate capital gain; and conversely

(b) where cash distributed is less than the trust components attributed by an AMIT, the cost base of the units may increase.

For a Fund that is not an AMIT, only (a) above applies and not (b). This could mean that unitholders are taxed twice on any undistributed taxable income. For this reason, when a Fund is not an AMIT the Responsible Entity would seek to distribute cash (or reinvest a distribution) at least equal to the proportionate share of the taxable income of the Fund allocated to the unitholder on a present entitlement basis.

Refer to 'Tax position of Australian unit holders' below for more information.

The former Australian Government announced a proposed amendment to the law to remove the CGT discount at the trust level. Unit holders would not then be required to gross up discount capital gains from a Fund, before applying any applicable discount to the gross gain from that Fund. This proposed amendment is currently awaiting confirmation from the current Government as to whether it will proceed. If it proceeds, it is expected to apply to income years commencing on or after three months after the date of Royal Assent of enabling legislation.

AMIT multi-class election

The RE has made the AMIT multi-class election for the Russell Investments Global Bond Fund. The effect of this election is that the Unhedged Class (with sub classes 'B' and 'D') and Hedged Class (class 'Y') will be treated as separate AMITs. Pooled income and gains of the Russell Investments Global Bond Fund will be allocated between the AMIT Classes in proportion to the net asset values of each class. However, certain foreign exchange hedging gains and losses undertaken by the Hedged Class (class 'Y') will only be included in the taxable income calculation of the Hedged Class.

Non-AMIT status of the Funds

If a Fund does not qualify or ceases to qualify as a MIT, and thereby as an AMIT, for a given income year, the tax position of each Fund and unit holders may change for that year. In income years where a Fund does not meet the requirements to be a MIT, the characterisation of such eligible investments (on revenue or capital account) will be determined based on the application of ordinary tax principles.

If a Fund meets the eligibility requirements in a subsequent year, it may revert to being treated as a MIT or an AMIT as the case may be. In these circumstances the Responsible Entity shall make the necessary transition adjustments as required under tax laws.

Even where a Fund does not qualify as an AMIT for a year of income, flow through tax treatment is intended to remain available, however certain features pertaining to MITs and AMITs will not apply (see below).

Tax position of Australian unit holders

Distributions – Fund is an AMIT

Australian unit holders should not be taxed on the cash distributions they receive from the Fund but on the amount of income and capital gains of the Fund which has been attributed to them on a fair and reasonable basis. The tax character of income (e.g., dividends, capital gains - discounted or otherwise) will flow through the Fund to the unit holder.

Unit holders may also be attributed franking credits attached to dividend income and foreign income tax offsets (FITOs) for certain taxes paid on foreign income. Unit holders should seek their own tax advice on the additional criteria which has to be met (including the franking credit 45-day holding period rule and their FITO cap) to claim these credits and offsets against their tax liability. For an Australian resident individual or complying superannuation entity, where available franking credits exceed their tax liability for that year, a tax refund may arise. For a company this may give rise to tax losses.

If a unit holder receives distributions of cash in excess of trust components attributed to them, they should reduce the cost base of their units. Where the cost base of a unit holder's units be reduced below zero, the negative amount should be included in the calculation of the net capital gain or loss for the income year.

Conversely, if a unit holder receives distributions of cash less than trust components attributed to them, they should increase the cost base of their units.

Unit holders will be provided with an Attribution Managed Investment Trust Member Annual (AMMA) statement each year setting out the amounts to which they have been attributed and any adjustments to be made to the cost base of their units.

Distributions – Fund is not an AMIT

For each income year, Australian unit holders will be taxed on their share of the taxable net income (including realised capital gains) of the Fund in proportion to the share of the distributable income of the Fund to which they are 'presently entitled' to.

The share of taxable net income may comprise various components, including dividends, capital gains, tax credits and offsets, such as franking credits attached to dividend income and offsets for certain tax paid on foreign income (both of which are subject to the Fund and/or unit holder meeting certain eligibility criteria). Cash distributions in excess of taxable components will reduce the unit holders' cost base of their units and reductions in excess of the cost base may result in an immediate capital gain.

If a Fund does not qualify as a MIT (and thereby as an AMIT) a few consequences arise including:

1. unit holders may not receive the benefit of the capital gains discount concession on distributions of realised gains for that year;
2. the Fund may not be able to claim certain carried forward losses from prior years; and
3. if a unit holder is taxed on amounts which they have not received in cash, they are not entitled to increase the cost base of their units and consequently, could be taxed twice on the same amount of income.

Unit holders will be provided with an Annual Tax Statement each year setting out the amounts to include in their own tax return and details of certain tax components which may require an adjustment to be made to the cost base of their units.

Disposal of units

Unit holders may realise a taxable capital gain or capital loss if they redeem, switch, transfer or otherwise dispose of their units in a Fund. Resident individuals, trust or complying superannuation entities, that have held units for at least 12 months prior to the disposal or redemption of those units, may be entitled to discounted capital gains treatment. If the Fund attributes a discount capital gain to a unit holder, the unit holder must first multiply the discount capital gain by 2 to determine the nominal capital gain. Individual, trust and complying superannuation fund unit holders may then claim the relevant discount capital gains concession applicable to them against the nominal gain in determining the net capital gain included in their assessable income. The capital gains discount is 50% for a resident individual or trust, and 33 1/3rd % for a unit holder that is a complying superannuation entity. No discount is available to corporate unit holders.

The CGT discount concession may be denied in certain circumstances where a unit holder (together with associates) holds 10% or more of the issued units of the Fund, the Fund has less than 300 beneficiaries and other requirements are met. Investors who together with associates are likely to hold more than 10% of the units in the Fund should seek advice on this issue.

Capital losses may only be offset against capital gains that the unit holder makes in the same income year and any excess capital losses may be offset against capital gains derived in subsequent income years, subject to certain loss integrity rules. Capital losses must be offset against the nominal capital gain before applying the discount concession. In calculating the capital gain or loss on the disposal of units, cost base adjustments (see above) may be required.

Tax position of non-resident unit holders

For non-resident unit holders, deductions of Australian tax will be made from distributions (or in the case where a Fund is an AMIT, attributions of taxable income components) comprising certain Australian-sourced income and capital gains. The amounts withheld will depend on the type of income and the country of residence of the unit holder.

Based on the Fund's expected investment portfolio, non-resident unit holders holding their units on capital account should not generally be subject to Australian capital gains tax on the disposal of units in a Fund unless the units were capital assets held by the unit holder in carrying on a business through a permanent establishment in Australia.

We recommend that non-resident and temporary resident unit holders consult their tax adviser before investing so that they can consider their circumstances, the provisions of any relevant Double Taxation Agreement and /or Exchange of Information Agreement between Australia and their country of residence.

Disposal of Units by Non-Resident unit holders

Based on the Fund's investment profile, generally non-resident unit holders holding their units on capital account should not be subject to Australian income tax on the disposal of units in the Fund unless certain circumstances occur including for example: (1) the units were capital assets held by the unit holder in carrying on a business through a permanent establishment in Australia; (2) the units were held on capital account and the Fund held a direct or indirect interest in Australian real property; or (3) the units on revenue account and the disposal of units is considered Australian sourced and treaty protection is not available. We recommend that non-resident unit holders seek independent tax advice in relation to the tax consequences of the disposal of their units.

Foreign income

The Funds may derive income from sources outside Australia. The attributed or distributed income amount of the gross foreign income will be treated as foreign income of the unit holder. The unit holder may be entitled to a foreign income tax offset for foreign tax paid by the Funds in respect of the foreign income received by the Funds.

Controlled Foreign Company (CFC) & Foreign Hybrid Rules

The CFC rules may apply to certain interests in foreign companies where controlling interests are held by one or more Australian residents (including one or more of the Funds), in certain circumstances.

Under the CFC rules, the net (taxable) income of a Fund may include the Fund's share of a CFC's attributable income (generally passive income) for a year on an accruals basis, even though the income has not been distributed by the CFC. Further, if a CFC or an investment in a limited partnership is a 'foreign hybrid' under Australian tax law, the foreign hybrid partnership rules may alternatively apply to include a share of partnership tax income in the taxable income of a Fund. A holding of at least 10% is generally required to be an "attributable taxpayer" under the CFC rules, or to qualify certain investments in foreign entities as a foreign hybrid. However, it is generally expected that the Fund's interests in foreign companies and limited partnerships will not be CFC interests or foreign hybrids. If applicable, the Responsible Entity will monitor the concentration of Australian (or Australian associated) ownership of any foreign companies and limited partnerships to determine if any income attribution under the CFC rules or foreign hybrid rules is required.

Taxation of Financial Arrangements (TOFA) regime

The TOFA rules may apply to certain "financial arrangements" held by the Funds. In broad terms, in calculating the net (taxable) income of the Funds, returns on certain financial arrangements may be recognised on an accruals basis rather than a realisation basis, and on revenue account. The administrator of the Funds will assist the Responsible Entity with compliance with the TOFA rules, as required by the tax legislation.

Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA) and Common Reporting Standards (CRS)

US tax laws require Foreign Financial Institutions (FFIs) to comply with various obligations to ensure that FATCA withholding tax at the rate of 30% is not deducted from certain US sourced income. Australia has also implemented the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development's (OECD) approach for the automatic exchange of information (the Common Reporting Standard or "CRS") by "financial institutions" (as defined for CRS purposes) on non-resident account holders or unit holders. The CRS is also known as "global FATCA".

Generally speaking, the Funds will fall within the definition of an FFI for FATCA purposes and the definition of a "financial institution" for CRS purposes. Accordingly, the Responsible Entity may be required to request unit holders to provide additional information, and report annually to the ATO on non-resident reportable accounts, to comply with its compliance obligations under the FATCA and CRS rules.

Tax reform

The comments noted above are based on the taxation legislation and administrative practice as at the issue date of the PDS, together with changes to the taxation legislation as announced by the Government. However, it should be noted that the Australian tax system is in a continuing state of reform, and based on the Government's reform agenda, reform is likely to escalate rather than diminish. Any reform of a tax system creates uncertainty, whether it be uncertainty as to the full extent of announced reforms, or uncertainty as to the meaning of new law that is enacted pending interpretation through the judicial process.

These reforms may impact on the tax position of the Funds and their unit holders. Accordingly, it will be necessary to closely monitor the progress of these reforms, and it is strongly recommended that unit holders seek their own professional advice, specific to their own circumstances, of the taxation implications of investing in the Funds.

Tax File Numbers (TFN) and Australian Business Numbers (ABN)

It is not compulsory for an Australian unit holder to quote their TFN or ABN. If an Australian unit holder is making this investment in the course of a business or enterprise carried on by the unit holder, the unit holder may quote an ABN instead of a TFN. Failure by a unit holder to quote an ABN or TFN or claim an exemption may cause the Responsible Entity to withhold tax at the top marginal rate plus the Medicare Levy, on gross payments including distributions of income to the unit holder. The unit holder may be able to claim a credit in the unit holders' tax return for any TFN/ABN tax withheld. By quoting their TFN or ABN, the unit holder authorises the Responsible Entity to apply it in respect of all the unit holder's investments with the Responsible Entity. If the unit holder does not want to quote their TFN or ABN for some investments, the Responsible Entity should be advised.

Goods and Services Tax (GST)

The Funds are registered for GST. The issue or withdrawal of units in the Funds and where applicable the receipt of any distributions is not subject to GST.

The Funds may be required to pay GST included in management and other fees, charges, costs, and expenses incurred by the Fund. However, to the extent permissible, the Responsible Entity will claim on behalf of the Funds a proportion of this GST as a reduced input tax credit.

Unless otherwise stated, fees and charges quoted in the PDS (including this Additional Information Booklet) are inclusive of GST and consider any available reduced input tax credits.

To the extent that a Fund is investing in international securities, the Fund may be entitled to yet undetermined additional input tax credit on the fees, charges or costs incurred. If the Responsible Entity is unable to claim input tax credits on and/or reduced input tax credits on behalf of a Fund, the Responsible Entity retains the ability to recover the entire GST component of all fees and charges.

Unitholders should seek professional advice with respect to the GST consequences arising from their unit holding.

New Zealand Taxation

The following summary is a general guide that outlines the New Zealand taxation implications applicable to New Zealand resident investors in the Fund. The summary is based on the New Zealand income tax laws as at the date of this PDS. New Zealand income tax laws are subject to continual change and as the tax treatment applicable to particular investors may differ, it is recommended that all New Zealand investors seek their own professional advice on the taxation implications before investing in the Fund.

The summary assumes that no New Zealand resident investor will have an interest of 10% or more in a Fund or if they do, they are able to use and elect to use the FDR method to calculate their attributable FIF income. Generally, the New Zealand taxation treatment of an investment in Australian securities is not the same as an investment in New Zealand securities.

Status of the Fund - New Zealand investors

For New Zealand tax purposes, the Fund, being an Australian unit trust, is deemed to be a company. New Zealand resident investors are treated as holding shares in an Australian resident company.

De Minimis Threshold

Investors that are individuals (and some limited trusts) that hold a total cost of NZD50,000 or less of units in the Fund along with any other foreign shares (that are not in ASX listed Australian companies) have a choice whether to follow the FIF rules below. If the investor chooses not to apply the FIF rules, the investor will only be taxable on distributions from the Fund.

New Zealand Foreign Investment Fund ('FIF') rules

An investment in the Fund by a New Zealand resident investor is likely to be a FIF interest for New Zealand tax purposes. The treatment under the FIF rules will depend on the Fund the investor holds an interest in.

1. Investment in:

- Russell Investments Global Bond Fund – Class B
- Russell Investments Global Bond Fund – Class D
- Russell Investments Global Bond Fund – Class Y:

These Funds hold investments (held directly or indirectly) that predominantly comprise debt securities, with foreign currency exposures largely hedged back to New Zealand dollars. For these Funds, New Zealand resident investors are prevented from using the FDR method to calculate taxable income. Instead, New Zealand resident investors will calculate their taxable income applying the Comparative Value ('CV') method. The CV method taxes investors on their actual gain (or loss) each year from the Fund (i.e. the aggregate of changes in market value, income distributions, the cost of units purchased and the proceeds of units sold during the year). Ordinarily, losses arising from FIF interests calculated under the CV method are not deductible however where investors are obligated to use the CV method (as in this case) any losses will be deductible to investors.

Income distributions and disposals

Income distributions and disposal gains and losses are not separately taxable under the FDR and CV FIF calculation methods. Distributions and gains and losses are included in the CV calculation.

Foreign withholding tax

Any Australian withholding tax deducted from distributions from the Fund may be allowed as a credit against a New Zealand resident investor's New Zealand income tax liability, subject to the general limitation that the credit allowed is the lesser of the New Zealand tax payable on income from the Fund and the Australian withholding tax paid.

Any withholding tax deducted from income derived by the Fund in other countries is not allowed as a credit against a New Zealand resident investor's New Zealand tax liability.

General

This information is of a very general nature and New Zealand resident investors should seek their own advice on the Australian and New Zealand tax implications of an investment in the Fund.

8. How to apply

The following additional information should be read in conjunction with section 8 of each PDS:

Investor identification and verification

In making an application for units investors must provide and we must verify specified proofs of identity. Refer to the Client Account Manual and associated forms for further details of what identification is required.

The protection of your investments is an important matter. We have investor identification and verification procedures (ID Procedures) in place to manage risks associated with fraud and unauthorised transactions.

At times these procedures may cause inconvenience or delay to you. Please remember that the procedures are applied to safeguard your investments.

In addition, under Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism Financing legislation, we are required to establish and enforce appropriate risk control programs with accompanying ID Procedures. The procedures require investors to provide satisfactory proof of identity which must be verified before an application for units can be accepted. The ID Procedures may also require us, from time to time, to re-verify that information or request additional identification or related information from you before we can process a requested transaction on your behalf.

As noted in section 7 'How managed investment schemes are taxed', the Responsible Entity may be required to request unitholders to provide additional information in order to comply with FATCA and CRS compliance obligations.

We do not accept any liability for any loss you may incur (whether by delay in acceptance of an application; transaction processing or otherwise), arising from the application of our ID Procedures.

If you invest in the Fund through a nominee, you will need to comply with your operator's investor identification and verification procedures.

Our legal relationship with investors

The Fund's Constitution provides the framework for the operation of the Fund, and together with the PDS and the Corporations Act 2001, sets out our relationship with investors. A copy of the Fund's Constitution is available free of charge on request.

However, remember that when you invest through a nominee you do not become an investor in the Fund.

Some of the provisions in the Fund's Constitution are discussed elsewhere in the PDS. Others relate to:

- how we must calculate unit prices
- our powers – which are very broad – and how and when we exercise them
- our ability to refuse applications and transfers
- calling, attending and voting at investor meetings
- when we are not liable to investors
- changing the Constitution
- when we can terminate the Fund or retire as Responsible Entity, and what happens if we do (if we terminate the Fund, investors share the net proceeds from us selling the underlying assets).

We are not liable for any loss unless we fail to comply with our duties under the Corporations Act 2001 and the Constitution. An investor's liability is limited by the Constitution to the value of their units, however this position has not yet been fully tested in Australian courts.

We may change the terms of the PDS, but will notify investors of any material changes.

Compliance Plan and Compliance Committee

The Fund has a compliance plan which describes the measures that we undertake to ensure compliance with the Corporations Act 2001 and the Fund's Constitution. A Compliance Committee with a majority of independent members has been established by us to oversee compliance with the Fund's Constitution and the Corporations Act 2001.
