Russell Investments Global Listed Infrastructure Fund

Infrastructure investment can be defined as investment in assets that provide services essential for a functioning economy.

The Russell Investments Global Listed Infrastructure Fund provides diversified exposure to a portfolio of long-term listed infrastructure assets, using specialist investment managers and strategies.

Demand for these services from infrastructure assets is often inelastic to price changes and these investments can therefore provide predictable and sustainable returns.

Available via a tax efficient PIE structure with underlying investments held directly, the fund is fully hedged to NZD and offers both developed and emerging market exposure.

Investor benefits

Diversification

As a real asset category, infrastructure offers a distinct risk, return and diversification profile relative to other asset classes, and thus merits consideration for a discrete allocation in a diversified portfolio.

Income generation

Infrastructure investments typically feature steady cash flows derived from tangible, long-life assets with monopoly-like pricing power; many are regulated and may feature income linked directly to inflation.

Long-term return potential

"Pure play" infrastructure assets—which include toll roads, regulated utilities, airports, seaports and cell towers—are essential to the fluid, effective functioning of societies, and accordingly they have highly inelastic demand patterns.

Most infrastructure assets are grouped into the following sectors:

	Energy Power generation, transmission, distribution, renewable energy, pipelines and storage		Water Water and waste networks, sewerage facilities and desalination plants
	Transport Ports, railways, airports, roads, bridges, parking, mass transit and waterways		Communications Cable networks, telecom lines, towers and satellites
	Social Hospitals, jails, schools, stadia, courts and social housing

Listed assets provide greater liquidity and transparency, and have lower management fees than direct assets.
