

KEEP CALM AND STAY INVESTED

3 GUIDELINES TO KEEP IN MIND IN VOLATILE MARKETS

We are faced with headlines every day that inevitably cause us to think about bailing on our investments. Whether it's the potential for trade wars and geopolitical tensions, anxiety about whether central banks can win their inflation fight, or sudden market volatility, the news can be very distracting.

On days where headlines are alarming and investors like you are wondering what's happening to their savings, it's more crucial than ever to focus on the bigger picture. At Russell Investments, we believe investors can avoid missteps that can lead to bigger shortfalls than they may already be facing. Recent events have served as a reminder of this. Investing can be uncomfortable for a lot of people, but does it have to be?

It's important to remember to stick to your long-term financial plan and avoid emotional, headline-driven decisions. To help ease some of the angst, consider these three tips to help you keep things in perspective, and stay calm and invested.

1. No one (really) can time the market

Even the most sophisticated of investors will tell you that it is virtually impossible to accurately predict the market's short-term moves. In fact, bad timing can be disastrous to investment returns. In today's reality, where investors are more likely than ever to face retirement income gaps, few can afford to miss out on potential returns.

We believe in the power of being invested over the long term. Not being invested (strategy #5 in Exhibit 1 on page 2), and simply leaving money in cash, yields by far the worst ending wealth of any investment option. Even investing your money on the worst days of the market (strategy #4) is still more favorable than not investing at all.

2. Nothing, especially volatility, lasts forever

There have been many times throughout history where markets have pulled back—but these relatively short periods are most often followed by the most favorable returns. Unfortunately, due to loss aversion*—one of the principles of behavioral economics—people tend to remember the bad twice as much as the good¹. This means that despite having experienced the longest bull run in history, even a few bad days in the markets can cause investors to rethink their long-term investment strategy.

But investing in a diversified portfolio of stocks and bonds can help overcome that emotional reaction. Exhibit 2 shows that a diversified portfolio invariably finishes a calendar year in positive territory—in fact, more often than not in strongly positive territory.

“In the financial markets, hindsight is forever 20/20, but foresight is legally blind. And thus, for most investors, market timing is a practical and emotional impossibility.

Benjamin Graham,
The Intelligent Investor

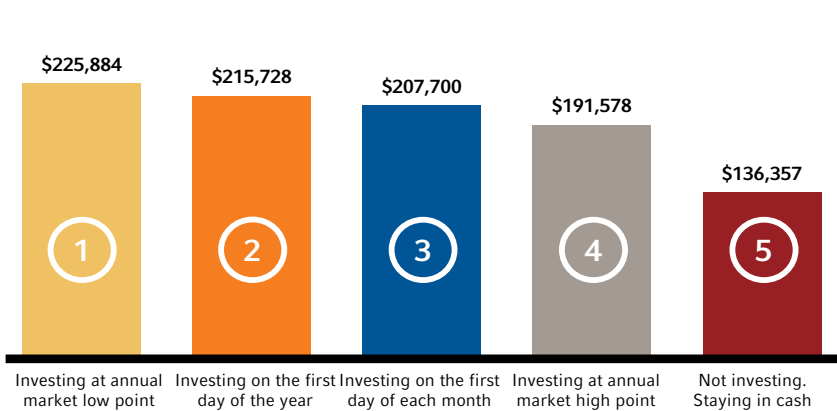

*Loss aversion is people's tendency to prefer avoiding losses to acquiring equivalent gains

¹ Source: Seeking Alpha: The Persistence of Aversion: Why Investor Pains Hurts Twice. <https://seekingalpha.com/article/4240745-persistence-of-aversion-why-investor-pain-hurts-twice>

Exhibit 1: Be invested, stay invested

1 Perfect timing	2 First of year	3 Dollar cost averaging	4 Perfectly wrong timing	5 Holding cash, no investment
This strategy is ideal, yet implausible.	Investing your money for the most amount of time can yield the most gain in most market environments.	A popular rules-based strategy. Can help investors cope with uncertain or volatile markets.	Despite bad timing, assets invested in the market may grow faster than if left in cash.	Holding cash too long can result in the least growth of wealth.

Hypothetical ending wealth after investing $12,000 per year
Period ending December 31st, 2024

Note that one year represents a 12-month period ending the last day of December each year.

Assumes a one-time investment of $12,000 per year into the S&P/TSX Composite Index with no withdrawals between December 31, 2014 and December 31, 2024.

Cash return based on return of $12,000 invested each year in the FTSE Canada 91-Day T-Bill Index without any withdrawals between December 31, 2014 and December 31, 2024.

Indexes are unmanaged and cannot be invested in directly. Returns represent past performance, are not a guarantee of future performance, and are not indicative of any specific investment.

Hypothetical analysis provided for illustrative purposes only

3. Diversification matters

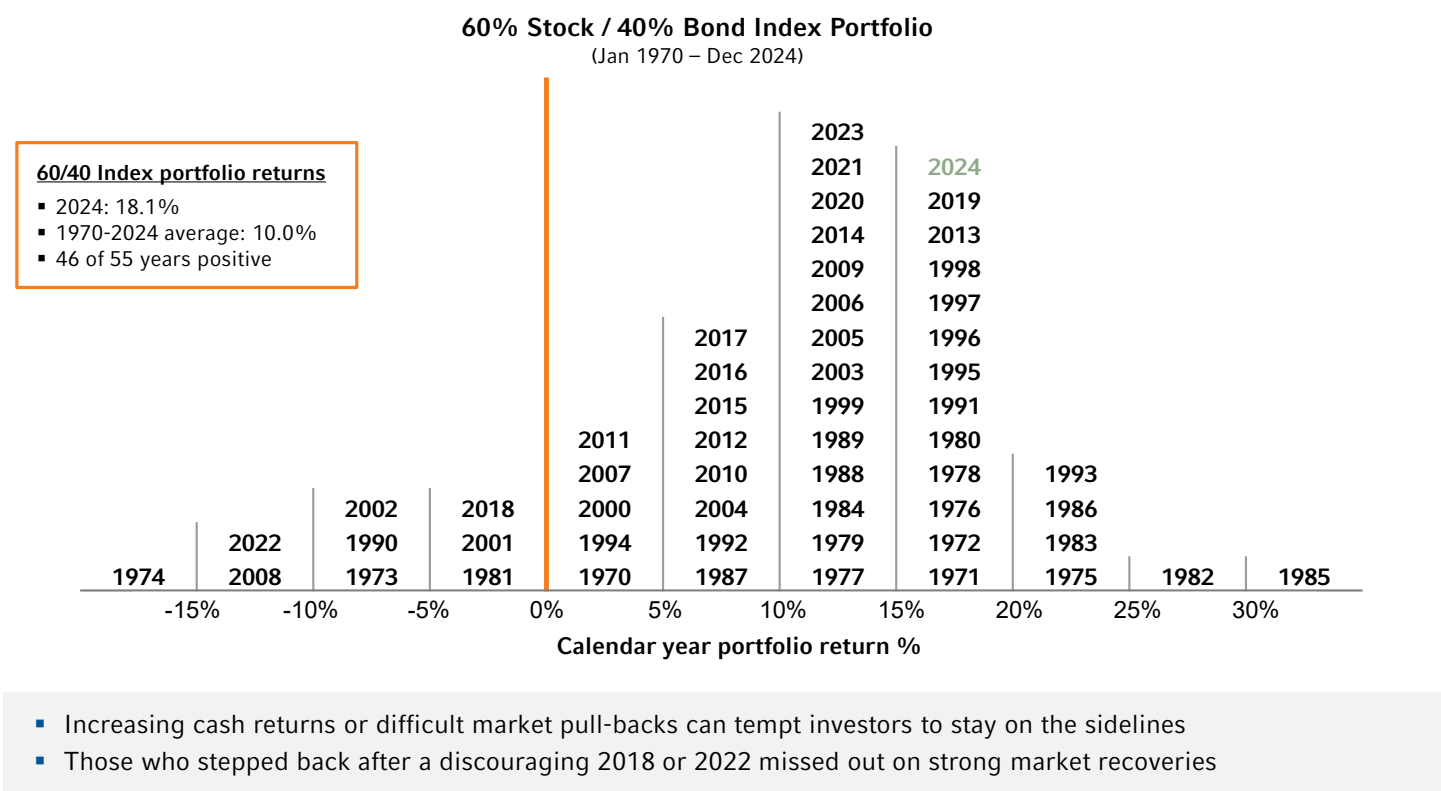

Having a robust strategic asset allocation with regular rebalancing, or investing in a professionally-managed asset allocation solution like a balanced or target date fund, can potentially enhance returns, but more importantly, manage volatility. Periods of panic provide an equally good opportunity to ensure that investors have the right attitude when it comes to risk. Asset classes change leadership regularly. Russell Investments has consistently advocated for investors to consider a global multi-asset approach to investing. We believe doing so puts investors on a smoother path toward meeting goals. Put simply, investors diversify because the future is uncertain, and no one can predict with certainty which asset class will win or lose over the upcoming cycles.

“The only investors who shouldn’t diversify are those who are right 100% of the time.”

John Templeton²

² Source: Financial Express: How legendary investor John Templeton learned to put his eggs in different baskets, by Sushruth Sunder. <https://www.financialexpress.com/market/how-legendary-investor-john-templeton-learned-to-put-his-eggs-in-different-baskets/847894/>

Exhibit 2: Historically it has paid to diversify

Source: Morningstar Direct. 60/40 Index Portfolio: 20% Canadian Stocks, 40% Global Stocks and 40% Canadian Bonds. Canadian Stocks: S&P/TSX Composite Index; Global Stocks: MSCI World ex Canada Index; Canadian Bonds: FTSE Canada Long Term Bond Index (1970-1979), FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index (1980-2023). Index returns represent past performance, are not a guarantee of future performance, and are not indicative of any specific investment. Indexes are unmanaged and cannot be invested in directly.

The bottom line

While navigating uncertainty and extreme market volatility is difficult, it’s important to keep the big picture in mind and stay focused on your long-term goals. Volatility is a reality, even in positive markets, and diversification is a tool every investor can rely upon to help withstand market corrections. Rather than reacting to volatility and trying to time short-term market gyrations, Russell Investments believes investors should base their investment strategy on personal long-term goals, time horizon, financial circumstances and risk tolerance, not on what markets are doing at a given moment. Staying invested has generally been a better option. Economic uncertainty will always be a cause for anxiety, so it’s important to remember these guidelines when the markets get choppy.

About Russell Investments

For more than 50 years, we've helped guide the investments of some of the world's largest companies, foundations and pension plans. Working with your financial advisor or your plan sponsor, you can benefit from this same expertise through our multi-asset, outcome-oriented solutions that are strategically designed to address investors' wide-ranging investment needs and objectives. No matter what stage of life you are in, we believe how you invest matters. That's why we provide investment solutions that are designed with your goals in mind.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Nothing in this publication is intended to constitute legal, tax, securities or investment advice, nor an opinion regarding the appropriateness of any investment, nor a solicitation of any type. This information is made available on an "as is" basis. Russell Investments Canada Limited does not make any warranty or representation regarding the information.

S&P/TSX Composite Index: The benchmark Canadian index, representing roughly 70% of the total market capitalization on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

MSCI World Index: Measures the performance of the largest 3000 U.S. companies representing approximately 98% of the investable U.S. equity market.

FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index measures the performance of marketable government and corporate bonds outstanding in the Canadian market.

The FTSE Canada 91-day Treasury Bill Index tracks the performance of three-month fixed income securities issued by the government of Canada. It is designed to reflect the performance of the relevant security for the relevant term, switching into the new Treasury bill at each auction.

Indices and benchmarks are unmanaged and cannot be invested in directly. Returns represent past performance, are not a guarantee of future performance, and are not indicative of any specific investment.

This material is not an offer, solicitation or recommendation to purchase any security.

Forecasting represents predictions of market prices and/or volume patterns utilizing varying analytical data. It is not representative of a projection of the stock market, or of any specific investment.

Please remember that all investments carry some level of risk, including the potential loss of principal invested. They do not typically grow at an even rate of return and may experience negative growth. As with any type of portfolio structuring, attempting to reduce risk and increase return could, at certain times, unintentionally reduce returns.

Russell Investments is the operating name of a group of companies under common management, including Russell Investments Canada Limited.

Russell Investments' ownership is composed of a majority stake held by funds managed by TA Associates Management, L.P., with a significant minority stake held by funds managed by Reverence Capital Partners, L.P. Certain of Russell Investments' employees and Hamilton Lane Advisors LLC also hold minority, non-controlling, ownership stakes.

Frank Russell Company is the owner of the Russell trademarks contained in this material and all trademark rights related to the Russell trademarks, which the members of the Russell Investments group of companies are permitted to use under license from Frank Russell Company. The members of the Russell Investments group of companies are not affiliated in any manner with Frank Russell Company or any entity operating under the "FTSE RUSSELL" brand.

Copyright © Russell Investments Canada Limited 2025. All rights reserved.

First used: March 2020 Updated March 2025.
RETAIL-04403 [EXP-03/2026]